A PODCAST BROUGHT TO LIFE CREATED BY MELODY JOHNSON & ALLEN COLE

Leftovers and the Lottery - A Celebration of Shirley Jackson is a thoughtfully curated portrait of one of America's greatest writers. In this 85 minute show, composer Allen Cole and actor Melody Johnson, combine reading, performance, and live piano, (classical and contemporary).

Leftovers and the Lottery is a gentle invitation for audiences to dip their toes back into communal spaces to imagine and conjure along with us some very dark and light characters and narrative in this unique 'podcast brought to life'. Audiences don't have to be Jackson fans to enjoy the show. Everyone will recognize and delight in the everydayness of her 'domestic humour' centered around family and community and also shudder at the horror of the everydayness of family and community!

"...Johnson is a great eccentric comedienne..."

—Robert Cushman, The National Post
